Agreement of cooperation between SPU and INIAV for creating together a new international scientific journal “Journal of Polyphenols”

The “Laboratory of Polyphenols” of Polo Dois Portos - National Institute for Agricultural and Veterinary Research (INIAV) has a long period of scientific cooperation with Shenyang Pharmaceutical University (SPU) in the area of polyphenols, executing together several national and international scientific projects.

Today, polyphenols have attracted great attention of scientific community, not only in the area of Enology, food science and technology, but also in cosmetic, pharmaceutical, medicine and natural plant areas, due essentially to their various health-beneficial effects.

On the basis of the bilateral cooperation between SPU and INIAV during the last 20 years, SPU proposed to create, together with INIAV, a new international scientific journal - Journal of Polyphenols; it is expected that this journal will be a part of ELSIVER’s journals with high impact factor during the next few years.

Considering the cooperation protocol between SPU and INIAV, established in June, 28, 2012, the following agreement for creating together a new international scientific journal between the two institutions were established.
